

Progression in Text Features: Year 1 to Year 6

What is the 'Progression in Text Features' document?

Rationale:

- To ensure progression across a whole school in a range of genres
- To create key features to show 'what will make writing in this genre effective'
- To support teacher subject knowledge of genres
- To focus writing on audience and purpose

This document outlines the specific features of each text type and suggests how these might be developed between year groups. The features are listed in the following order: vocabulary, sentence, text structure and organisation.

There are two sections to the document, covering both non-fiction text types and story writing. Within the non-fiction section, we have suggested which text types are suitable for which year groups based on their level of complexity and skill requirements for the writer.

Types of stories

Historical:

Structure:

Re-telling with a flashback which could begin with the final event
Fictional but use real events

Vocabulary: Historical setting

Accurate historical detail

Give clues to the reader about when the story takes place-what characters are wearing, buildings, horse drawn carriage rather than cars etc

Archaic language might be appropriate

Adventure

Structure:

Re-telling of a series of events leading up to a high impact resolution.

Build excitement and tension

Combine action, dialogue and description

Dialogue to advance the action or create tension 'did you hear a noise?'

Vocabulary: Use a setting where there is potential for adventure through a threat or danger

Description adds to the sense of adventure or possible prediction at what could happen

Powerful, evocative language for settings and characters

Powerful and varied verbs for action

Mystery

Structure:

Questions to exaggerate the mystery

Dialogue to advance the action or create tension 'did you hear a noise?'

Add an ingredient into a setting or character to trigger a mystery

Vocabulary:

Use adventurous word choices

Language to intensify the mystery: puzzling, strange, baffling, weird

Use pronouns to create mystery and avoid defining or naming a character

Make a character seem mysterious through their actions or dialogue

Science-Fiction

Structure:

Setting is usually a time in the future

Plot is usually adventure and fast-moving

Structure to play with time sequence: Flashbacks and time travel

A strong main character

Vocabulary:

Clear and detailed description to convey imagined settings, technology, processes and characters

Dialogue may be in unusual form or different language

Types of stories

Myths

Structure:

Plot is usually a journey, a quest or a series of trials for the hero
Incredible or miraculous events
Characters behave in superhuman ways with unusual powers or strong characteristics
There is usually a hero and a negative character
Fast moving narration of action
Character has a magic object which may symbolise something

Vocabulary:

Rich, strong vocabulary to describe power and splendour of settings or characters
Imagery: similes, metaphors, symbolism
Vivid description of characters and settings
Dramatic settings portrayed through description

Legends

Structure:

Usually chronological with a series of linked episodes, phases of a journey or an ongoing battle
Formulaic openings and endings
Struggle between good and evil
Symbols are used e.g. red for anger /danger or a flame for hope

Vocabulary:

Rich, strong vocabulary to describe power and splendour of settings or characters
Imagery: similes, metaphors, symbolism
Vivid description of characters and settings
Dramatic settings portrayed through description

Fantasy

Structure:

A strong plot as well as fantastical elements

Vocabulary:

Very clear and detailed description to help the reader imagine
Use imagery for description

Types of stories

Fairy Tales

Structure:

Setting is vague-Once upon a time; long, long ago

Recount in chronological order

Re-telling of events that have happened to a main character who has come into contact with the 'Fairy world.'

Hero or heroine is searching for something

Characters may be fairy folk or talking animals

Numbers or patterns are usually significant especially 3 and 7

Usually a happy ending

Vocabulary:

Language reflects the settings-archaic language

Phrases that have strong rhyme or rhythm

Repetition of a significant line

Use different styles of language for the characters to show contrast between them

Fables

Structure:

Usually short with few characters

Simple structure with beginning, complication and resolution

Establish the setting in the first line

Two characters meet, something happens and a lesson is learnt

Characters are often animals with human characteristics and traits

Use the main characters to give the fable a title

State the moral of the fable at the end

Dialogue or action is used to advance the plot

Dialogue is used to state a moral rather than describing characters

Give clues as to what might happen e.g. a sly fox was watching the chickens behind the fence

Vocabulary:

Be specific with character description e.g. A crafty stork...a timid lion...

Limited use of description because events are more important than settings

Use a question to introduce one character to another e.g. why are you waiting here little frog?

The passing of time reflected by using adverbs of time or adverbials
